-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --

Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1-4 and 6-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Long (4685223).

Long shows a shoe and method of making a shoe comprising an outsole (2), with a notch in the bottom periphery of the outsole (shaped as claimed and inasmuch as applicant has shown the claimed shape noting applicants' figures 3 and 7 which show notches which are the same shape and shown by Long in figure 2 A), a sock lining (42), a cushion (44), a securing mechanism (48), the socklining is attached "directly to said outsole" (i.e. it is not attached to another element which is attached to the outsole, the stitching attached the socklining directly to the outsole in that no other structure is needed to perform the attachment), and an upper (5) as claimed.

In reference to claims 3 and 8 the stitch of Long does extend from the upper, through the socklining and to said notch as shown in figure 4.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1-4 and 6-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Weiss (5146697) in view of Long (4685223).

Weiss shows a shoe and method of making the shoe comprising an outsole (5) with a notch in the bottom periphery of the outsole (shown in figure 2), a sock lining (3), a cushion (7), a securing mechanism (15), and an upper (1) substantially as claimed except for inarguendo the socklining contacting the user's foot (although it is pointed out that the claims only require that the socklining be "adapted" to perform such a function) and the exact shape of the notch. Long clearly teaches that a socklining be in direct contact with a user's foot and that additional layers above such are not needed and it has been held that omission of an element and its function in a combination where the remaining elements perform the same functions as before involves only routine skill in the art. In re Karlson, 136 USPQ 184. Long also teaches forming a stitching notch in the outermost periphery of an outsole (as shown clearly in figure 2A). It would have been obvious to allow the socklining to contact the user's foot and to form the notch in the outermost periphery as taught by Long in the shoe and method of Weiss to simplify construction, reduce weight, make the stitching easier, etc.

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's arguments filed 4/4/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

In response to applicants' arguments directed towards the rejections involving the notch shape shown by Long, the notch of Long is almost identical to the shape shown by applicant in applicants' figures 3 and 7 and therefor the shape taught and shown by Long does meet the claim language inasmuch as applicant has disclosed such shape.

Art Unit: 3728
